Itinerary:

Fly From Honolulu to Maui → Kepaniwai Park & Heritage Gardens → Maui Tropical Plantation → The shops at Wailea → Makena Beach → Lava Fields - Ke'one'olo → Mama's Fish House → Ho'okipa Beach Park → Paia Town → Honolulu

All day

Kepaniwai Park and Heritage Gardens

Kepaniwai Park and Heritage Gardens, adjacent to the Wailuku Stream, is a beautiful public park containing displays that honor the cultures that contributed to modern Maui. Among the interesting structures are an early-Hawaiian hale, a New England-style saltbox, a Portuguese-style villa with gardens, and dwellings from such other cultures as China and the Philippines. The park's name harkens back to the infamous Battle of Kepaniwai in 1790 between Kamehameha I and Kahekili, king of Maui.

Maui Tropical Plantation

Maui Tropical Plantation is located in Waikapu, on the road heading from Kihei towards Lahaina. The property covers over 60 acres and is home to a wide variety of tropical plants, including crops being cultivated at the plantation including coffee, macadamia nuts, avocado, and papaya.

Makena Beach

Makena Beach is located south of Wailea and provides a secluded alternative to more crowded beaches in Kaanapali and Lahaina. With its dramatic cliff landscape and brilliant blue/green water, Makena Beach is one of the most popular shorelines in Maui. It’s often referred to as Maui’s “Big Beach” and is one of the largest beaches on the island, with golden sands extending nearly 1.5 miles long and 100 yards wide. You can swim or snorkel in the water, enjoy a picnic in the shade, or simply sunbathe on the seemingly endless expanse of sand. Whatever you choose, a trip to Makena Beach will be one you’ll never forget!

Ho'okipa Beach Park

Hookipa — it means “hospitality” in Hawaiian. Located miles away from the crowds, this pristine beach is nestled on the island's north shore alongside the Road To Hana. Thanks to its consistent winds, large waves, and sprawling reef system, this is one of the best locations in all of Hawaii for windsurfing. Modern-day surfing on Maui started here, at this beach just outside of the charming artsy town of Paia on Maui’s northern coastline.
