All day

West Rim

The West Rim is the western end of the Colorado Canyon. It is a protected area of the Hualapai Indian Tribe. It was developed by investors and is not managed by the Grand Canyon National Park. It is within a three-hour one-way drive from Las Vegas. A U-shaped glass corridor, known as Skywalk, was also built here for everyone to feel the height and excitement of the canyon.

Hoover Dam

The Hoover Dam was constructed during the Great Depression from 1931 to 1936. Upon its completion, it was the world's largest hydroelectric power station and concrete structure at the time! The purpose of the Hoover Dam is to provide hydroelectric power, water storage, irrigation, and flood control from the Colorado River. It will leave you in shock with just how powerful it is and how people were able to construct the dam without the usage of the technology that we have today.

In just 2 minutes, guests can create their very own one-of-a-kind M&M's with the personal printer. And, before you go, make sure to keep that sweet tooth satisfied with your favorite chocolate!

Seven Magic Mountains

Across the desert south of Las Vegas, Nevada, rises a large, colorful anomaly. Seven colossal stone forms defy gravity with their teetering formations. Mediating between geological formations and abstract compositions, Rondinone’s Seven Magic Mountains consists of locally sourced limestone boulders stacked vertically in groups ranging between three and six. Each stone boasts a different fluorescent color, and each individual totem stands between thirty and thirty-five feet high. The artwork extends Rondinone’s long-running interest in natural phenomena and their reformulation in art.

Outlets at Barstow

Barstow Outlets is located in the desert, on the only way from Las Vegas to Los Angeles. There are not many first-tier luxury brands in this Outlets, but mostly second tier brands, especially local brands within the States. The collections are relatively complete and concentrated, and the service is also quite good, making it a comfortable shopping experience to close out the day.
