Neck Point is a destination waterfront park for Nanaimo and the region. The park is well known in the community for its historic, scenic and natural features. Rugged rock cliffs, with pebble bay beaches, and winding trails through Garry Oak groves will be found here. The park is a great location for photographers wanting to capture the essence of Nanaimo and the west coast lifestyle! Guests of our Tofino whale watching trips will tour the waters of Clayoquot Sound where we most often view Grey Whales. The grey whale migration from Baja California, Mexico begins to arrive along the west coast of Vancouver Island in February and continues through late May. From March through October, over 200 'resident' grey whales will stay feeding in the waters. Humpback whales are seen throughout our season, with the most frequent sightings between June and September. You will also see Orcas (Killer Whales) throughout the year. In addition to whales, you will have chance to enjoy views of sea lions, eagles, sea otters and other amazing wildlife while on the water.

Afternoon

Pacific Rim National Park Reserve - Long Beach Unit

Lying along the west coast of Vancouver Island in the traditional territories of the Nuu-chah-nulth First Nations, Pacific Rim National Park Reserve boasts kilometres of long sandy beaches, unspoiled temperate rainforests and adventures that will delight the explorer in all.

Amphitrite Point Lighthouse

The Amphitrite Lighthouse is a classic sight in Ucluelet. In fact, if you've been to Ucluelet, but didn't go to the lighthouse, it hardly counts as having visited the quaint fishing village on the west coast of Vancouver Island. As peaceful and postcard-perfect as the lighthouse looks, especially as the sun kisses the horizon goodnight, basking the squat white building in pinks and golds, it is a product of tragedy. No matter the season, seeing the Amphitrite Lighthouse is a treat for the eyes of anyone on the coast.
